About the fund

The Fund aims to achieve a long-term return, in excess of the long-term return that is typically achieved from global equity markets, by investing in a portfolio of company shares in any country. The fund will be concentrated in terms of the number of companies it invests in. Ian Warmerdam has been Director of Technology Investment at Henderson since the start of 2007, having joined the company in 2001. He is the lead Fund Manager of Henderson's Global Innovation Unit Trust. Ian has been responsible for the management of Henderson's Morningstar-rated Henderson Global Technology mutual fund which launched in August 2001. He is also responsible for a Technology 'sleeve' to larger, global equity portfolios. Ian is an Associate Member of the Society of Investment Professionals.

Please note that as of 2 January 2013, Ian Warmerdam took over management of this fund from Matthew Beesley.

Glossary

Alpha

Alpha is the term used to describe the out-performance of an investment over and above the market's performance. A positive alpha indicates that a fund has outperformed its respective benchmark and negative alpha indicates a measure of relative under-performance.

Beta

Measures the volatility of a portfolio or stock relative to an underlying index. Each index is assigned a beta of 1.0, so beta values above 1.0 indicate a more volatile or aggressive portfolio; beta values below 1.0 reflect a more stable or conservative fund. Example: A portfolio with a beta of 1.25 is expected to be 25 percent more volatile than the index.

Sharpe Ratio

Sharpe ratio measures the reward for taking risk (measured in terms of volatility). The rationale being that a fund manager should attain at least the "risk-free" return and consequently the reward for taking risk should be adjusted to exclude this component of a fund's performance. This equates to the "excess return per unit risk taken". The Sharpe ratio is calculated by subtracting the "risk-free" rate (e.g. 3 month LIBOR US$) from a fund's (e.g. US$ Equity Fund) annualised return and dividing this by the fund's annual volatility.

Standard Deviation

Measures the volatility of a fund's returns. Higher numbers indicate greater fluctuations in performance and thus are more volatile funds. Lower numbers reflect less fluctuation in the fund's returns.

Tracking Error

Tracking error is used as a measure of risk versus a fund's benchmark by measuring the standard deviation of their relative returns (fund taken as the numerator). A larger tracking error indicates greater performance deviation from the fund relative to the benchmark than a lower tracking error would suggest.

Information Ratio

This statistic measures how much a fund's performance may be attributed to manager skill as opposed to market movement. A high Information Ratio implies more manager skill than a low value would suggest. The information ratio is calculated by taking the difference between the average annualised return of a fund and the average Annualised return of its benchmark and then dividing this value by the requisite tracking error of the fund.

General risks

- The value of the Funds and the income from them is not guaranteed and may fall as well as rise. You may get back less than you originally invested.
- Past performance is not a guide to future performance.

Risk profile

- This Fund invests in shares, which may be more volatile than other asset classes such as cash or bonds. The Fund may utilise derivatives for efficient portfolio management.
- The Fund holds a limited number of investments. If one or more of these investments declines in value, or is otherwise adversely affected, this could have a greater impact on the Fund's value than if a larger number of investments were held.
- As the Fund invests globally, it is exposed to changes in exchange rates which may cause the value of investments to fall or rise independently of the underlying holdings.
- The Fund may invest in emerging markets which tend to be more volatile than more established markets and therefore your money is at greater risk. Other risk factors such as political and economic conditions should be considered.
