Glossary

Alpha

Alpha is the term used to describe the out-performance of an investment over and above the market's performance. A positive alpha indicates that a fund has outperformed its respective benchmark and negative alpha indicates a measure of relative under-performance.

Beta

Measures the volatility of a portfolio or stock relative to an underlying index. Each index is assigned a beta of 1.0, so beta values above 1.0 indicate a more volatile or aggressive portfolio; beta values below 1.0 reflect a more stable or conservative fund. Example: A portfolio with a beta of 1.25 is expected to be 25 percent more volatile than the index.

Sharpe Ratio

Sharpe ratio measures the reward for taking risk (measured in terms of volatility). The rationale being that a fund manager should attain at least the "risk-free" return and consequently the reward for taking risk should be adjusted to exclude this component of a fund's performance. This equates to the "excess return per unit risk taken". The Sharpe ratio is calculated by subtracting the "risk-free" rate (e.g. 3 month LIBOR US$) from a fund's (e.g. US$ Equity Fund) annualised return and dividing this by the fund's annual volatility.

Standard Deviation

Measures the volatility of a fund's returns. Higher numbers indicate greater fluctuations in performance and thus are more volatile funds. Lower numbers reflect less fluctuation in the fund's returns.

Tracking Error

Tracking error is used as a measure of risk versus a fund's benchmark by measuring the standard deviation of their relative returns (fund taken as the numerator). A larger tracking error indicates greater performance deviation from the fund relative to the benchmark than a lower tracking error would suggest.

Information Ratio

This statistic measures how much a fund's performance may be attributed to manager skill as opposed to market movement. A high Information Ratio implies more manager skill than a low value would suggest. The information ratio is calculated by taking the difference between the average annualised return of a fund and the average Annualised return of its benchmark and then dividing this value by the requisite tracking error of the fund.

General risks

- The value of the Funds and the income from them is not guaranteed and may fall as well as rise. You may get back less than you originally invested.
- Past performance is not a guide to future performance.

What are the risks specific to this fund?

- There is no guarantee that investors will get back the invested amount given that the value of investments is subject to market conditions and therefore may go down as well as up.
- The performance of the value of the Company and its Funds is primarily a comparison of the net asset values per Share at the beginning and the end of a particular period of time. Hence, an investor in order to assess the actual performance of his investment in the Company must deduct from the performance declared at a certain time any subscription fee paid by him when making his investment in the Company.
- The value of an investment in the Company will be affected by fluctuations in the value of the currency of denomination of the relevant Fund's Shares against the value of the currency of denomination of that Fund's underlying investments. Adverse fluctuations in currency exchange rates can result in a decrease in return and in a loss of capital.
- The Pan European Smaller Companies Fund may use techniques and instruments for hedging purposes only to protect portfolios against currency fluctuation, market movements and interest rates risks. The use of any of these derivative instruments will not reach a volume which could endanger the spirit of the investment policy.
- Securities of smaller companies may be less liquid than the securities of larger companies, as a result of inadequate trading volume or restrictions on trading. Securities in smaller companies may possess greater potential for capital appreciation, but also involve risks, such as limited product lines, markets and financial or managerial resources. Trading in such securities may be subject to more abrupt price movements than trading in the securities of larger companies.
- Investors should note that in certain market conditions, securities held by the Pan European Smaller Companies Fund may not be as liquid as they would be in normal circumstances. If a security cannot be sold in a timely manner then it may be harder to attain a reasonable price and there is a risk that the price at which the security is valued may not be realisable in the event of sale. The Pan European Smaller Companies Fund may therefore be unable to readily sell such securities.
